

Mesa, Arizona – MD Helicopters (MD), OEM of the MD 530F, has renewed a multi-year support contract for the Saudi Arabia Ministry of National Guard's (SANG) fleet of 12 MD 530F training helicopters.

The renewed agreement extends MD's direct support role to SANG and includes program management, engineering and technical support, spare parts and supply chain support, repair and overhaul services, and on-site field service representation. As the aircraft manufacturer, MD provides the engineering authority, technical data, and platform knowledge required to sustain operational readiness across the fleet.

"Effective sustainment begins with OEM knowledge and direct platform expertise," said Ryan Weeks, President of MD Helicopters. "This contract reflects MD Helicopters' continued commitment to providing customers in the region with the engineering, logistics, and field support necessary to maintain high aircraft availability and long-term operational success."

Supporting Global MD Operators

MD Helicopters continues to support military operators worldwide through OEM-backed sustainment, engineering, spare parts, repair, and field service support programs tailored to mission requirements and fleet readiness objectives.

The renewed agreement with the Saudi Arabia Ministry of National Guard reflects MD's long-standing commitment to supporting international MD operators with direct access to factory-backed technical expertise, logistics support, and lifecycle sustainment capabilities through established U.S. Government foreign military support channels.

Support under the agreement includes:

- Program management and sustainment coordination
- Engineering and technical support
- OEM spare parts and supply chain support
- Repair and overhaul services
- On-site field service and maintenance support

The MD 530F is widely recognized for its operational agility, reliability, and performance in demanding environments, making it a proven platform for military training and mission support worldwide.

About MD Helicopters

MD Helicopters, LLC is a leading manufacturer of high-performance rotorcraft for military, commercial, law enforcement, and utility missions worldwide. As the OEM for the MD 530F platform, MD delivers factory-backed engineering, sustainment, modernization, and aftermarket support solutions to operators across the globe. The company remains focused on providing responsive customer support, mission-ready aircraft solutions, and long-term fleet sustainment capabilities.

